Dear Rhodes Grove Camp, Anderson wants to greet you and he wishes that you are in good health. He wants to thank you for your support and prayers. He is happy that you are sponsoring him. He wants to tell you that he is doing well at school and that he is doing his best to learn more. He tell you that in his house, all of them are doing very well and healthy. Anderson tells you that his mom took him to the amusement rides since in his country, they always place amusement rides in the month of August. He also says that he ate "elotes locos"* and French fries. He asks you if you like potatoes? He tells you that he always goes to C.D.I. (Integral Development Center) and prays for you. He asks you to pray that Jesus always may keep him healthy. He says goodbye sending you a hug.

*"Elotes locos" (Crazy corns). A typical dish of El Salvador, the yellow corn is served on wooden sticks and then cooked, either grilled or boiled. Then you set out the toppings similar to corn dogs.
